

Higher order thinking – how it is learnt

HIGHER ORDER THINKING . . .

- is learned socially;
- takes place through language and interaction;
- is developed through student autonomy, choice and responsibility;
- occurs where learners plan and manage their own learning;
- has the teacher 'scaffolding' learning;
- occurs through group work with planned collaboration.